Call for submissions and evidence to the COVID-19 Response Inquiry

The COVID-19 Response Inquiry Panel invites interested people and organisations to make a submission and/or provide evidence to inform recommendations that aim to improve Australia's preparedness for future pandemics.

I am a teacher and have worked with the [REDACTED] for almost 20 years. In 2022, I was sacked for misconduct when I chose not to get an experimental covid injection.

The Australian Federal government failed to protect my right to choose which medical treatments I have by failing to introduce anti-discrimination legislation (COVID-19 Vaccination Status (Prevention of Discrimination) Bill 2022 and the Fair Work Amendment (Prohibiting COVID-19 Vaccine Discrimination) Bill 2023. These Bills still seem to be before the senate.

According to the Nuremberg Code (1947) : The voluntary consent of the human subject is absolutely essential. This means that the person involved should have legal capacity to give consent; should be so situated as to be able to exercise free power of choice, without the intervention of any element of force, fraud, deceit, duress, overreaching, or other ulterior form of constraint or coercion;

Threatening my livelihood was coercion. Forcing my children to get injected or they could not attend university was coercion.

In failing to introduce the above Bills, you have failed to protect your citizens' civil rights and you have failed to uphold the Nuremberg code.

If you aim to improve Australia's preparedness for future pandemics, then there will not be any excuses for failing to uphold basic human rights.

Regards,
