

The national cabinet (which has no basis in the Constitution) operated in secret and never released any minutes of meetings. Public trust was lost as there was no accountability for decisions made by premiers and government bureaucrats. The “health advice” that the premiers and CHO’s relied on was never released to the public. The messaging was confusing and constantly changing. “Rules” were inconsistent across the states. The federal and state governments massively over-reached in control over the people.

Mandates in relation to masks and experimental injections are in absolute violation of our most basic human rights. These mandates breach the Nuremberg Code. No one in a “free democratic country” should ever be forced, coerced or tricked into taking an injection for any reason, even if it is apparently for the “greater good”. Consent is absolutely critical. No one should have been locked out of society for not complying with these mandates. No one should have lost their job for not complying. No one should have been denied health care for not complying.

It’s now become quite obvious that the injections actually carry many more adverse reactions than originally stated and these adverse reactions are not as rare as we were led to believe. Cheap and effective medications (ivermectin and hydroxychloroquine) were available and should never have been dismissed let alone banned. On the basis of effective medications being available, the covid “vaccines” should never have received emergency use authorisation. It is a violation of Australians’ rights to medical care and the doctor-patient relationship. The government should never interfere with a person’s right to confidential discussions with their doctor and a person’s decision about their own healthcare and medical choices.

Dissenting voices should never have been censored. People have the right to access information from all sources and make their own decisions about their own health. The mainstream media continue to feed the public nothing but government-approved propaganda. There are many highly qualified health professionals (eg. [REDACTED], [REDACTED] and many others) who have asked questions and suggested protocols other than what government health officials have suggested and enforced. The fact that these health professionals have been silenced, censored and in some cases de-registered is unacceptable.

Why was there no government messaging including suggestions to improve immunity such as increase or maintain levels of vitamin D, zinc and other essential vitamins/minerals? Why weren’t we encouraged to keep up or start some form of adequate exercise? Why was eating a healthy diet and avoiding/minimising alcohol, caffeine, smoking not promoted? Why were gyms, sporting centres and pilates studios closed during lockdown but bottle shops remained open? Why were the government recommendations in direct opposition to what we all know is commonsense?
