I am writing to inform you of my concerns regarding the recent pandemic, in particular the way vaccines were mandated for anyone who wanted to retain their employment, the way Government across all levels deemed it necessary to vaccinate our young people, and the lack of transparency regarding decisions associated with lockdowns, mask mandates and stay-at-home orders.

Why is it, with the number of COVID deaths higher over the past 2 years than in 2020/21, there is no current pandemic response, no lockdowns, no mask mandates, no vaccine mandates? One would have to question whether this whole COVID response was nothing more than a huge exercise in population control.

It was quite clear from early 2020 that COVID was only of major concern to people over the age of 70, and those with pre-existing health conditions. Figures from ABS showed consistently that people under the age of 20 had virtually nothing to be concerned about. Current figures show that 0.1% of COVID deaths occurred in the under 20 age group, which represents 24% of the Australian population. Additionally, the Government response to vaccine injury has been designed to be so convoluted and non-user friendly the only assumption that can be made is that there is something to hide. Instances of major injury occurring as a result of administering a non-proven, untested vaccine to more than 90% of the Australian population needs to be fully investigated and exposed. Additionally, compensation needs to be paid to anyone who has had a major, lifechanging reaction to vaccines.

It was also quite evident very early on that outdoor activities were extremely low risk, yet our State Governments insisted on stopping most forms of outdoor activities, confining people to indoors where the risk of contracting COVID was at its highest. The health guidelines for each state justifying these decisions has never been made public.

Australia deserves nothing short of a full Royal Commission into the decisions made and abuses of power made by all levels of Government and the Public Service.
